

John Bacci

Federal Hill resident since 2012, Marylander since 1983. John is the owner of Foundation Financial Advisors, a Maryland Registered Investment Advisor, since 1997. John likes to golf (badly) and sing (even worse). You can generally find John and his wife Marianne out and about in the neighborhood on most weekends.

Zac Blanchard

Zac Blanchard lives on Poultney St. He has been Poultney's block captain, and FHNA's block captain chair, for the last two years. He has been an at-large member of the FHNA board for the last year and has been closely involved with the sanitation and social committees. He is an active member of the Catholic Community of South Baltimore, where he coordinates the volunteer renovation effort of the 8,000 square foot parish retreat house and captains the church's VOLO softball team. He is an active member of Thread.

Pamela Howard

Previously from Richmond VA, Pamela just celebrated the one-year anniversary of moving into our E. Cross St. home. She grew up at the mouth of the Chesapeake Bay in Hampton, VA and spent many hours sailing there with her dad and sister. Pamela's hobbies are cooking, gardening, reading -- and swearing off collecting more books, plants, or cook pots. Her newest hobby is container gardening. She used to teach aikido at a dojo in Richmond where I was a member for a decade. Pamela's vocation and avocation is healing- she is a licensed acupuncturist and certified Chinese Medical Herbalist. Her newest goal is to open an acupuncture clinic & herbal pharmacy here in Federal Hill.

Fran Landolf

I've lived in Federal Hill for 27 years and love the neighborhood for its residents and all the wonderful memories I've made here. Grew up in Upstate New York and a career in federal government service brought me to Maryland in 1975. From experience I can say that Federal Hill is a great place to brew beer in your basement and things you can eat on your roof. The FHNA has always been a force for nudging the neighborhood in the direction of improvement over the years and am happy to help do some of that good.

Nick Mayr

Hello, my name is Nick Mayr, and I am one of your FHNA neighbors. I'm a NJ native but have been in Baltimore for a dozen years. I have a background in urban planning and work for the state of Maryland as a program officer for several community development grant programs. I love life here in Federal Hill and I'm excited to work with you all to take care of our community as it grows. Thanks for this chance to be a part of things here in the neighborhood!

Emily Mendenhall

Local beekeeper and gardener, Emily can be found outdoors in some capacity when she is not at work or practicing her sourdough baking skills. She is an avid cyclist, runner, backpacker, kayaker, and fly fisher-- mostly up on the Gunpowder above the city. Emily is a lover of live music in most all capacities and appreciates a delicious whisky, mostly rye, or port. While not originally from Baltimore, she's called the city, and Federal Hill, home since 2016. She'd love to chat about bees, share a tawney, or swap seeds with you any time!

Kate Sylvester

I moved to Federal Hill in June 2021, taking advantage of increased telework to live in a place more community-oriented (and affordable!) than my previous home in DC. I love my new neighborhood and hope to help residents address issues, keep informed, and continue to improve our neighborhood. I live with my husband Doug, his mother Audrey, and our cute cat Tamsin, who loves to look out the window onto Montgomery Street.
